Topic: "Professionalism"

Tony Kern, Ed.D., (CEO) is one of the world's leading authorities on human performance in time-constrained, error-intolerant environments, and has written and lectured on the subject for nearly two decades.

"When it comes to honoring the sacred ground that is your path to full potential, there is little value in dwelling too long on the past, worrying too much about the future, or measuring yourself against anything other than your best. Performance lives in the present and is measured in small clicks of the progress wheel. Those who bring passion to their work, look for new ways to improve, and who take responsibility for their own improvement will own the future of our industry."

Don't miss this unique opportunity to be challenged to a higher level of performance and network with aviation professionals.

You can hear a teaser from Tony Kern's message to the 2012 Bombardier Safety Standdown here: Tony Kern Video
